Official Allyn Girls Newsletter

June 01 – June 15, 2024

Vol. 1, Issue 11

Greetings everyone, As we conclude another semester filled with hard work and dedication, we are delighted to embrace the much-anticipated vacation period. For many of us, this time signifies not only a well-deserved break but also an opportunity for personal growth and introspection.

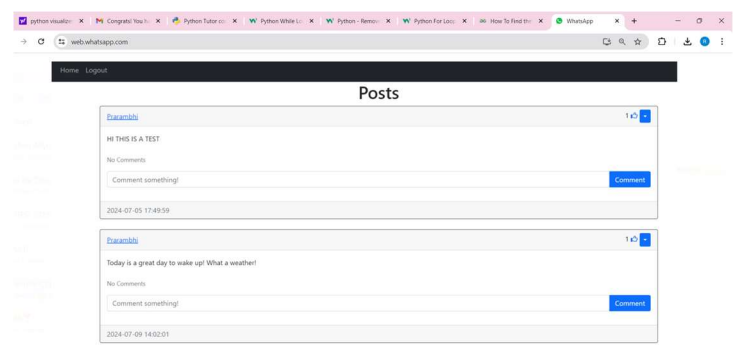

While some of our members are taking a well-earned rest to recharge their batteries, others are passionately pursuing avenues of self-improvement and skill development. It's inspiring to witness the diversity of paths each of us chooses during this time, reflecting our collective commitment to personal enrichment and empowerment.

In this newsletter, let us celebrate this season of renewal and exploration, fostering a supportive environment where we can share experiences, insights, and aspirations. Together, let's make the most of this vacation to nurture our minds, bodies, and spirits.

We are proud to share that most of our last year girls - Shruti Parade, Divyajothi Raja, Lekha Pulavarthy, Anshu Sakhare, Riya Kamble, Shreya Jadhav and Rakshita Sarap all coming from BEIT participated enthusiastically in Placement training sessions organized by Smartwayz in collaboration with TPO (Training and Placement Officer), Xavier Institute of Engineering, focusing diligently on vital skills such as resume writing, interview techniques, Group Discussion and aptitude test preparation. Their dedication and focus have been exemplary, reflecting our community's commitment to continuous improvement and preparation for future opportunities.

Nirjal Rajendra Chaudhari (TE CSE) spent this half of June in search of a suitable internship opportunity with the ambition of not only utilizing her skills to its fullest but also having an exponential growth at the same time. While Nirjal was looking for internship to polish her skills, Prarambhi kharose (TE CSE) decided to enhance her skillset by engrossing herself in project-based learning. She successfully completed one project and without wasting any further time started a second one too, Expressing her dedication and love for technology.

Following the adage "Early bird catches the worm", Bhanvi Pandey (TE CSE) has proactively begun preparing for the next semester well ahead of her peers. She has already initiated her research to select the most suitable topic for her upcoming semester project. Her foresight and initiative reflect her dedication to achieving academic excellence.

Kanchan Kumari (SE IT), the youngest and most enthusiastic member of our committee, has recently embarked on a certification program in cybersecurity offered by Google on Coursera. Her proactive approach underscores her commitment to expanding her knowledge and skills in this critical field.

Priyanka Pratap Reddy (TE CSE) showed unwavering commitment and dedication as she meticulously prepared for her upcoming exams. Her focus and determination were evident as she aimed not just to pass, but to excel and achieve outstanding results.

Alicia Dsouza (BE COMPS) decided to make the most of her well-earned vacation by immersing herself in the books that holds dear. Embracing this opportunity for relaxation and enrichment, she eagerly delved into a diverse array of genres, savoring each page as she explored new worlds and perspectives through literature.

Meanwhile, Serina Selvan (TE CSE) took advantage of her vacation to reconnect with her roots at her native place. Embracing the opportunity for reflection and nostalgia, she immersed herself in cherished memories and traditions, fostering a deeper appreciation for her cultural heritage.

Vishnu Priya Sahu (TE CSE) fulfilled her long-held wishes by visiting several temples that were on her bucket list. She cherished this valuable time spent with her friends and family, creating lasting memories and deepening her spiritual connection.

Cecilia Dinesh (TE COMPS) diligently fulfilled her role as an elder sibling by assisting her younger brother with his studies, demonstrating her commitment to supporting his academic progress and overall well-being.
